

THE SPRING WALK

That is the walk to the stores. We do not complain; but in a general way the weather, we know, has stopped many a promenade of this kind.

We remark that when you make it we have wherewithal to make it worth your while to walk this way, to wit.

In Challe, a very handsome and desirable fabric, this season we have an elegant assortment, from the cheapest to the best goods manufactured, and in styles that are ours exclusively.

Of French Sateens we have now over FOUR HUNDRED STYLES to select from, having added to our already fine assortment many choice styles this week. We keep the best goods made.

We have a good line of Wash Robes, in Sateens, Gingham, Chambray, etc.

Anderson Scotch Gingham in combination patterns, plaids and checks. These are the best goods manufactured.

ASSOCIATION OF UNDERTAKERS.

Followers of the Trade Have Lost Their Interest in Organized Efforts.

The ninth annual meeting of the Funeral Directors' Association of Indiana began in Wright's Hall yesterday forenoon, with only twenty-five or thirty members present. The association was organized for the purpose of maintaining a standard of prices for undertakers' services, but during the last few years a good many members have broken away because they believed they could profit more by competition. Richard I. Meeks, of Muncie, is president of the association, and S. R. Lippincott, of Richmond, secretary. Mr. Meeks delivered an address in which he recounted the benefits that were to be derived from a membership in the association, and spoke of the many innovations in the undertaking business. The secretary in his annual report did not speak very hopefully of the future prospects of the organization. He said there were about six hundred undertakers in the State, but of the number only about one-half gave their undivided attention to the business. The association has enrolled 114 members, and of these twenty-three are delinquent. It met, he said, with a good many discouragements the last few years, and as he had been secretary all that time he proposed to step out and give way to a younger man, who could throw more energy into the work of building up the organization. However, he proposed to remain an active member and would give the association his cordial support as he always had done in the past. Following the address of the president, and report of the secretary, considerable routine business was disposed of, and after that several phases of the business were discussed. Prof. Sullivan, of the Oriental School of Embalming, of Boston, was presented, and he explained his mode of preserving a body. At 4 o'clock this morning the members of the association will meet at undertaker Kregelo's chapel to see Prof. Sullivan demonstrate his work. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected this afternoon.

Personal and Society.

Miss Herat, of Connersville, is the guest of Miss Rose Stout.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bradley left last night for Chicago to reside permanently.

Mrs. James Warrick, of Chicago, arrived yesterday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Low Wallace, on West North street.

Mrs. May Wright Sewall's usual Wednesday reception will be omitted to-day. Mrs. Sewall will be in attendance on the suffrage convention.

Mrs. M. M. Landis will go to Madison to-day to attend the funeral of Mr. James Woolford, whose death occurred there, very suddenly, yesterday.

Mrs. Ellis, who has been at Eau Claire, Wis., for some time with her daughter, Mrs. Thomas, is now visiting her daughters, Mrs. Geo. H. Chapman and Mrs. Moon, on North Meridian street.

Mrs. Sada Daggett Allen will give her graduation, eleventh annual recital this evening at the First Baptist Church. The readings will be interspersed with musical numbers by well-known talent.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Peep entertained a company on Monday evening, it being the twentieth anniversary of their marriage and Mrs. Peep's birthday. They were the recipients of many beautiful presents.

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to Elmer Earhart and Emma McComack, John G. Baxter and Annie Sheehan, August F. Gooden and Elvora Meier, John E. Staver and Mollie E. Peck.

The Central W. C. T. U. will meet this afternoon in the lunch-room at 2:30 o'clock. The board of managers will meet in the same place at 10 A. M. Delegates to the convention will leave for Frankfort on Thursday.

The Art Association has appointed ladies to be present each day at the art exhibit, and this morning Mrs. Dean, Mrs. Day and Mrs. W. J. Richards will be present and this afternoon Mrs. Bingham, Mrs. Sayles and Mrs. Love.

A May festival will be given by the Young People's Circle of Plymouth Church on Friday evening. An interesting programme of music and original sketches will be presented and elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment.

Short funeral services will be held at the late residence of the deceased, Mrs. W. H. Smith, No. 83 North Tennessee, at 9:45 o'clock A. M. to-morrow. Her remains will be taken there morning to Logansport on the Panhandle train, leaving at 11:15 o'clock.

The young ladies of Memorial Church will give a "Festival of Days" this evening at the church. Many novel ideas have been thought out and will be presented. The holidays and high days of the year will show many original forms in decorations and other appointments. It is the latest entertainment for the season.

Alexander Riemann, of Baltimore, father-in-law of John H. Holiday, died in that city yesterday after a lingering illness. He was for many years a prominent business man of Baltimore as were his father and grandfather before him. Of strong, pure character, he was honored and respected by all who knew him. He was in his seventy-fourth year. Three daughters and a son survive him.

The rehearsal and concert announced to be given by Professor Black, of Indianapolis, on Tuesday night, the 22d instant, will be at English's Opera-house instead of the Grand. The latter place is rented for another purpose for the entire week, which necessitates the change. The concert promises to be one of the chief musical events of the season, no less than the temple being on the programme for their first public appearance.

The Sunday-school class of Roberts Park Church, of which Dr. Ritter is the teacher, went out to Irvington, last night, to give him a surprise party, the occasion being his birthday anniversary. The guests, with many good wishes for many returns of the day, were provided with a beautiful amount of refreshments. Music and various amusements made the hours go by all too rapidly. The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all, there being about sixty among the self-invited. The return home was made at a late hour.

INTERESTS OF THE ODD-FELLOWS.

Daughters of Rebekah Want the Organization of Grand Degrees in Each State.

Of the numerous secret orders of Indiana that hold their annual meetings in Indianapolis none bring together more representative men and women than the Odd-fellows. This is the order's week in Indianapolis, and every train is bringing in delegates from all parts of the State. The advance guard of the order proper, the Daughters of Rebekah, reached the city yesterday morning, over two hundred strong, and went into annual meeting in the Grand Lodge hall at the corner of Pennsylvania and Washington streets. The degree is for the ladies, and was founded by Schuyler Colfax. It was in memory of his efforts in gaining the admission of women to the order that the degree originated and was largely instrumental in carrying out the plan that built the statue that now adorns University Park. These present when the meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock included many ladies of prominence from all parts of the State. The following officers of the order in attendance: President, Mrs. Anna Hunt, Brazil; secretary, Miss Alice McQuiddy, Indianapolis; treasurer, Miss Lydia Way, Winchester; vice-president, Mrs. A. B. Schuyler, Union City; wardens, Mrs. Hannah Tomlinson, Indianapolis, chairman, Mrs. Mary Craws, Greencastle; guardian, Mrs. Ellen Lefever, Union City. The committee on credentials, composed of Mrs. Gates, Angola; Mrs. Dorpe, Indianapolis; Mrs. Bennett, Irvington, and Mrs. Alpine, of Evansville, passed upon the credentials of 250 delegates and seated them all. For the benefit of new delegates the unwritten work of the degree was explained by J. W. McQuiddy, grand instructor. The rapid growth of the degree in Indiana made it necessary to reduce the basis of representation, and with that end in view a resolution was passed fixing it at two delegates for each fifty members and one delegate for each fraction over fifty members. A resolution was also passed fixing a per capita tax of one cent per member to pay the expenses of the annual meeting.

The greater portion of the session was taken up in discussing the advisability of asking that the Rebekah Degree be recognized by the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the United States as a grand body. A resolution demanding such recognition was introduced last year, but was laid over until this year for action. A resolution was finally passed by an almost unanimous vote asking the Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., to instruct its delegates to the Sovereign Grand Lodge to vote for the establishment of a Rebekah grand degree in each State in the Union.

After the transaction of routine business the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Mrs. Anna Craws, Greencastle.

Vice-president—Miss Alice McQuiddy, Indianapolis.

Secretary—Mrs. Anna Henderson, South Bend.

Treasurer—Mrs. Anna J. Clark, Union City.

The appointed officers are:

Wardens—Mrs. Sallie C. Jackson, Jeffersonville.

Guardians—Mrs. Clara Lennon, Camden.

Chaplain—Mrs. Anna Hunt, Brazil.

The meeting then adjourned to meet in Indianapolis on the third Tuesday in May, 1889.

Last night the delegates were entertained by Olive Branch Lodge, of Indianapolis, when the beautiful work of the degree was given. The exemplification was witnessed by over three hundred members.

The Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., of the State, will meet this morning at 10 o'clock, and will continue its session two days or longer. The last few years of the order in Indiana has been one of great prosperity, and over one thousand delegates are expected from the subordinate lodges. Many delegates, whose wives were members of the Daughters of Rebekah, came in yesterday, but the majority will not arrive until this morning. Louis T. Mischner, Attorney-general, is grand master; J. H. G. F. Harper, of Madison, deputy grand master; C. C. Binkley, of Richmond, grand warden; B. F. Foster, of Indianapolis, grand secretary; and T. P. Hargreave, grand treasurer. Considerable business of importance will come before the meeting. Among other questions to be considered is the resolution concerning the formation of grand degrees of the Daughters of Rebekah. The visiting delegates will be entertained to-night by the Indianapolis Lodge with an exemplification of the degree work, at their new hall, on Virginia avenue.

THE SCHOOL ENUMERATION.

Superintendent La Follette Interprets the Law and Methods of That Work.

Superintendent La Follette yesterday replied at some length to the inquiries of the School Board of Fort Wayne and the county superintendent of Allen county in regard to the trouble over the enumeration in that city. In interpreting the term "head of family," with reference to the subject under consideration, he says: "This term includes all who have the support of a family resting upon them. It may be an older brother or sister, foster parents, or anyone else upon whom the child is dependent and with whom it makes its home, but who is neither its father, mother or legal guardian." His letter further says that servants who are minors, but who are receiving wages and supporting themselves, must be enumerated at the homes of their parents or guardians exclusively, because they are not in the eyes of the law emancipated, and that enumerations can not be made and credited to factories, workshops and places where they are employed. In reply to the question whether students at colleges, who have no support, must be enumerated in the school district where the college is, and whether if they need to enter the high-school as preparatory to their college work, they can be enumerated in the district where the college is, he says: "In incorporated towns and cities there is but one district. If, as rarely might be the case, a student at college or in school is without parent, guardian or home, and is domiciled in the boarding-house attached to such college, he would be properly listed under the name of the person in charge of such boarding-house, or of the college, or if residing in lodging there only, and being without a home elsewhere, such minor should be listed under his own name as 'head of family.' No minor can be listed as a college or a commercial corporation, and such institution has been by the probate court constituted his legal guardian; and the legal presumption is that a student in college is but a temporary resident, and is not a permanent domicile. In the case of a whole city is construed as one district. The superintendent recommends enumeration by wards on the basis of residence. It is regarded as the question at issue in Fort Wayne whether the county superintendent has any right to refuse to accept an enumeration made, the reply says Section 4475 of the Code of 1882, which provides that should the trustees fail to file with the county superintendent an enumeration of the children of the city as required by Section 4472, the county superintendent shall have the right to make an enumeration at the expense of the city. Section 4472 specifically details how such enumeration shall be made, and by Section 4475 the trustees are required to testify by affidavit to the completeness, accuracy and legality of such enumeration. An erroneous and false enumeration is, legally speaking, fraudulent, and hence would be void and without force. The county superintendent is required to make a careful investigation, ascertain that such enumeration is fraudulent, he can undoubtedly have a new and correct enumeration made and collect the expenses of such enumeration from the trustees individually. Accidental errors can and should be corrected by the board of trustees at the request of the county superintendent. But his request is not binding on the trustees. If the trustees' report of enumeration speaks the truth is just as great as that of the trustees, and he cannot accept a false, fraudulent or erroneous report. If the county superintendent transmits a false enumeration to the State Department he directly violates the statute. If he believed the report to be erroneous he should allow the trustees to correct it. If he will do so promptly and completely, otherwise he should have a new enumeration made. In reply to the inquiry whether when persons are transferred to one city for another, they do not belong to that school district as long as they send their children to school, although they may move into another township, the superintendent replies that such is not the case, but that a change of civil residence carries likewise with it a change of school residence. The superintendent in view of these details orders a re-enumeration to be made in Fort Wayne with reference to which he says: "Special care should be taken to avoid the mistakes which have made such re-enumeration necessary. Enumerators are enjoined to strictly follow the instructions of the law, and to work-shops, schools, hotels, etc., as heads of families; the enumeration of servants and employees to householders where employed, where employees have parents or home elsewhere. For the sake of accuracy, the exact residence of every parent, guardian or head of family should be listed, in order that the enumeration may be verified and any accusation of its inaccuracy be met."

The friends of William Hagerdorn are making an effort to secure him a place on the Metropolitan police force again. He left the force a year ago and went into business at Cumberland. Last week everything he had was destroyed by fire, including the wearing apparel of himself and family. Friends have made up a purse for the support of his family until he can secure employment. He was a sergeant on the force when he resigned, and a very efficient officer.

Will Not Be Repealed.

The almost unanimous opposition of the people to the repeal of the cow ordinance, as contemplated by what seemed to be a majority of the members of the Council at its last meeting, seems to have resulted in several councilmen changing their opinions, and there isn't much likelihood now that the ordinance will be disturbed. So far as the South-side people have expressed themselves, they seem to be as much opposed to turning the cows at large as the residents north of Washington street. "I do not believe that there were three members of the Council who intended to vote for the repeal of the ordinance when it came to a final vote," said a South-side resident yesterday. "I am sure that all the members of the body from our part of the city want the ordinance to stand. The fact is, several councilmen secured their elections by promising a few disappointed ones to have the ordinance repealed, and they had to make the move they did in order to keep faith with their constituents. But the very next morning, when they were enough votes against repealing the ordinance to kill it." The ordinance will come up for consideration again next Monday evening, and there is a disposition among the majority of the members of the Council to kill it by a vote of 11 from the files. Whether that is done or not there will be no more votes to pass it.

The Marion County Doctors.

At last night's meeting of the Marion County Medical Society Dr. D. H. Oliver read a paper on chronic rheumatism. Dr. Hays, Harvey, Stearns, Cook, Farver, Stillson, Bryant, W. N. Winard, Pfaff, J. H. Oliver, J. H. Woodburn, Vernon, Jeffries, Comigor, Henthorne, Marree, Woolen and D. A. Thompson were elected delegates to the State Medical Society, which meets in this city at Plymouth Church June 5 and 6.

A DISTINGUISHED CALIFORNIAN.

The Hon. Newton Booth Talks of Politics, Tariff and the Growth of His State.

Ex-California Senator Newton B. Booth, of California, is in the city, visiting his sister, Mrs. John S. Tarkington, at No. 598 North Pennsylvania. He will remain a month here and in the East during the summer. The Senator is a native Indian and a graduate of Asbury University. His mother died but a few months ago at Greencastle, at a very advanced age. For the past eight years he has been altogether out of politics, having devoted himself to commercial enterprises in Sacramento. Those who heard his energetic and stirring speeches in 1876 in this State, in the Harrison campaign, are surprised at his changed appearance. He now looks twenty years older than then.

"What is the political outlook in California?" a Journal reporter asked him yesterday.

"The Republican sentiment is for Blaine and the Democrats are for Cleveland."

"You do not consider Blaine absolutely out of the race, then?"

"I am not speaking my own sentiments, but of the general opinion there. As I gather from the papers and other sources, I am wholly out of politics myself, and do not pretend to speak authoritatively for anyone else in the State. I can see, however, from the little attention I give to the matter, that they do not yet consider Blaine's withdrawal absolute."

"I, myself, think it was a fine sentiment, however, is not crystallized. The State convention has been held, and is instructed for no one. I do not think they know who they want, and am positive they will not be united on anyone if they learn that Blaine is positively not a candidate. Harrison's name is mentioned frequently along with other men, and he is universally respected among the Republicans. There is no active sentiment, however, for any one."

"What are the prospects of the Republicans in your State, generally speaking?"

"Quite good, I think. They appear confident of their success, no difference who the presidential candidate. The State has been tinged with Democratic rule occasionally, because of some trick played by the Democracy, as in the case of the Chinese question. That, however, will never worry us again. All parties are so agreed on that question that it will never be a factor again. If the Chinese have any friends there they are so few as never to be heard from."

"How is California on the tariff?"

"I think the preponderance of sentiment is in favor of a protective tariff. They want a tariff on raw materials, on fruits and wine, which are great California products. The tariff question is likely, therefore, to cut some figure, although there are a great many who are in favor of reducing the tariff. These are usually governed by their own interests on that question."

"Will Cleveland's pension votes affect him in your State?"

"Somewhat, I presume, although the soldier element is not as large in our State as in some others. The Grand Army have, however, quite a powerful organization there. In addition to those sent to the war by the State, a great many soldiers have gone there since from the East."

Senator Booth said California was making wonderful strides in wealth. The last list there last of 1880 was $600,000,000. "I think," he remarked, "is not good, owing to an insufficiency of rain, but the crop of fruits and grapes is very large."

Building Permits.

The following building permits were issued yesterday: John Carroll, frame cottage, on Park avenue, near Eighth, $1,650; Jacob Brunner, improvements at No. 462 East North street, $125; Chris Hilgenberg, brick addition to dwelling at No. 23 West Ohio street, $400; Chris Hilgenberg, two-story brick store-room at No. 51 Stevens street, $2,000; O. S. Rannels, brick residence, on the corner of Meridian and Second streets, $10,000; E. E. Schaefer, improvements at No. 453 East McCarty street, $750; Chris Yeagle, two-story frame dwelling, at No. 449 Broadway street, $1,500.
